

Program Demographics

A CIT agency program is a community wide program built around a single police agency that utilizes CIT trained officers in its community's crisis response system. A CIT agency program may or may not independently conduct CIT 40-hour trainings, which will be addressed under the training section, but must have some components of CIT programming.

Depth of Program

CIT programs have three significant responsibilities: developing community collaboration, often using a CIT Steering Committee; transforming a community's crisis response system that integrates several components to provide easy access to crisis care in the least intrusive manner; and training.

ON-GOING MULTI-DISCIPLINARY CIT COMMITTEE - A CIT agency program could involve a steering committee, workgroup, or some other formal body that oversees the program and looks for opportunities to further develop community crisis response services. This committee can include members representing the agency, behavioral healthcare services, advocates, and persons with lived experience.

Does your program have an on-going committee that oversees the program?

INTEGRATED CRISIS RESPONSE SYSTEM - An integrated crisis response system is one that incorporates various levels of response or services for people in crisis. Does your crisis response system include components other than the standard police response?

TRAINING - A CIT agency program may or may not conduct various training such as de-escalation training, mental health awareness training, 40-hour CIT training, etc.

Does your program conduct CIT training, de-escalation training, mental health awareness training, or any other training that would be associated with crisis response?
